(time of Augustus)

Marcellus Agrippa is said to have devised
a 20-yr survey over thousands of miles of roads from Britain to the Middle East
His master map, engraved in marble
and set up near the Forum in Rome, became a source of information and
an object of patriotic pride

C/0 BC

After Caesar died 44 BC
Primo made every 3rd yr
leap year.

Twelve leap years
took place instead of 9 before the mistake was discovered

∴ Probably no leaps from 8 BC → 7 AD inclusive

A public sundial was erected in 10 BC by Augustus to commemorate his victory over Mark Antony and Cleopatra, and to inaugurate his coming empire of peace.

He used an obelisk transported from Egypt (which still stands in the PIAZZA de Popolo in modern Rome) as a 50-foot

gummi plant in the complex matter in the middle of an enormous grid
of lines showing the length of hairs,
deep, and months, and the signs
of the zodiac

The ahead of process time led the snails & lizards to perceive the first human frustrations about time measured by a clock.

SAHARIA

Emperor Augustus gave the town to Herod the Great who renamed it SEBASTE in honor of Augustus. The ruins of the Temple, Herod (d 4 BC) built still exist.

It had been destroyed 120 BC by John Hyrcanus. Here is where Philip the Evangelist preached.

10 BC - 7 BC

A.D. 6

'CYRENIUS the governor' was the senator P. SLPICIVS QUIRINIUS who is otherwise known to us from Roman documents. The Emperor Augustus rated highly the outstanding ability of this social climber, both as a soldier and administrator.

In A.D. 6 Quirinus went as legate to Syria. Coponius was sent with him from Rome to be the FIRST PROCURATOR of justice. Between A.D. 6 & 7 they carried out a census (this census was a preliminary one & probably not the whole Empire)

Hence I suppose that there in Syria once before in the days of SATURNUS, the procurator. He led a campaign against the Ituraeans, a tribe in the Taurus mountains in Asia Minor. Q. Aemilius Lepidus the next of government arrived in the A.D. in Syria between 10 and 13 C.

C 106C

Augustus reduced the number of Quaestors from 40 (where it had grown) to 20.

The Quaestors under the Empire became more secretaries to the Emperor, Consuls and Proconsuls.

Legend.

The army of the Goths together with women and children left its homeland on the decision of King FILIMER.

Some invaded the territory of the SPALI.

Eventually the Goths settled in OIUM ("in the rich meadows")

on the shore of the Sea of AZOV

Homeland probably Scandinavia.

Claudius was born at LUGDUNUM
(Lyons)

Tiberius Claudius Drusus

His father was DRUSUS, son of Augustus's wife LIVIA. His mother was ANTONIA, daughter of Mark ANTONY. His disability was considered a detriment.

His movements were jerky, he had a speech impediment and he had a tendency to drift, symptoms

which have been diagnosed as cerebral palsy. His mental faculties were not impaired.
